

GB 24 (M 9/SE)

Date of construction

First building of a group of four connected tombs (GB 24–27)
2nd floor: 2nd century AD(?)

Name of the deceased

Sophron and Theoandros, son of Isidoros

Construction material

Mudbrick

Number of burials

At least 2

GB 24 (M 9/SE)

Number of floors	2 (1 st floor not excavated)
Number of rooms	2 plus front hall (2 nd floor)
Number of niches	2 nd floor: front hall: 1 in the east wall (originally 2?); eastern room: 2 small niches in the north and 2 in the south wall, 1 alcove in the north and 1 in the south wall (originally 3, destroyed by later entrance in the east wall?)
Decoration	Front hall: two columns in antis (destroyed), wall paintings imitating slabs of alabaster and red porphyry, above red slab bordered by zigzag pattern; first room: white orthostates, imitations of alabaster and red porphyry slabs (above), imitation of garlands with wine grapes and pomegranates (top); second room: destroyed except of floral designs on the door frame and two inscriptions (see below)
Inscriptions	„Memorial of his brother Sophron“ and „Tomb of Theoandros, son of Isidoros“ (after Perdrizet, actually destroyed)
Bibliography	Gabra 1939, 484. Fig. 47. Pl. 78 e P. Perdrizet in: Gabra 1941, 88 Gabra – Drioton 1954, pl. 3 Gabra 1971, 86. Fig. Grimm 1975, 226 note 30. 230 Bernard 1999, 126 no. 37

Author: K. Lembke